

SafeLine COMPHONE handset, for intercom and configuration

*COMPHONE

The handset for intercom and configuration

Can be connected with any of SafeLine's emergency telephones for simple configuration or for on-site recording of an identification message to the call centre operator.

When connected to an SL6 main unit, the handset can be used for communication between the machine room and car stations, as well as any extra stations on car roof or in lift pit. When connected to the SL6, the handset also functions as a normal telephone for external calls.
